big punch. It is a story of a husband who wrongly suspects his beautiful wife and crazed by the thought of her The greatest hit so far produced by the popular Broadway Revue Musical Comedy company, entitled Bunco, or the Baby Elephant, was the offering at the Auditorium theatre to two well filled houses and, true to the promises made, was a laugh from start to finish.

It is without question the best all around musical comedy seen here at popular prices in a long time and was clean and entertaining throughout.

The comedy of Bill Jennings and Sidney Rogers, who impersonate the baby elephant, is a scream.

Persy Carroll, the dainty little singing and dancing soubrette, made her usual hit and her songs were well received.
